To Whom It May Concern:

It is a pleasure to work with Adaptive Technology Resources. They have been very responsive to our needs. This was a large endeavor for the district and the ATR staff was very helpful throughout the planning, ordering, installation, orientation and training of staff. I was able to talk through the plans and ask for advice from their experienced staff.

The hardest part of adding new technologies and software is getting staff trained, especially a staff that has very varied ability levels. Nic and Carol do a great job of providing trainings that meet the varied needs of the staff. The staff have been very pleased with the experience and made many positive comments about the trainers.

The best part of the experience is that it does not feel like you are working with salesmen just trying to sell a product. These folks truly believe and are passionate about what their products can do for students.

Sincerely,
